Congratulations to

Shufu Judo Yudanshakai continues to rebound following the COVID pandemic. The judo community suffered a lot during the pandemic since judo is a contact sport which caused overall membership to drop significantly. Many clubs had to shut down completely and were not able to reopen. However, Shufu Judo Yudanshakai remains strong due to many loyal judokas and the commitment to keep judo growing. In 2021 our membership had dropped to 248. As of December 1, 2025, we have 21 registered dojos comprised of 507 members, of which 131 are dan ranked judoka, 162 are senior judoka and 345 are junior judoka. The current top five clubs by membership are Arlington Judo in Arlington VA, Hui-O-Judo in Beltsville MD., DC Judo in Washington DC, Kuma Judo in Florence MA and College Park Judo in College Park MD

Shufu Yudanshakai Kata Corner

Are you introducing and teaching your junior judoka kata? We are introducing a new junior nage no kata with just 3 throws – uki otoshi, uki goshi and okuri ashi barai. We are encouraging all junior judoka enhance their judo experience by learning and competing in kata. As they develop, they can move to the first three sets and continue to develop. Shiai is not for all judoka. Kata is an excellent opportunity to grow.

We're proud of you, James!

There are two principal ways of practicing Judo: Kata and Randori. Kata, which literally means "form" is practiced following a formal system of prearranged exercise, while Randori, meaning "free practice" is practiced freely. Through Kata practice, trainees learn the principles of techniques.

In the Kodokan, the following nine Katas are mainly adopted;

1. Nage-no-Kata (Forms of Throwing)

Three representative techniques are chosen from each of five Nage-wazas: Te-waza, Koshi-waza, Ashi-waza, Ma-sutemi-waza and Yoko-sutemi-waza.

2. Katame-no-Kata (Forms of Grappling or Holding)

Five model techniques are chosen from each of three Katame-wazas: Osaekomi-waza, Shime-waza and Kansetsu-waza.

3. Kime-no-Kata (Forms of Decisive techniques)

This is to learn the techniques for serious combative fight. It consists of the techniques in a kneeling position (Idori, 8 techniques) and in a standing position (Tachiai, 12 techniques).

4. Ju-no-Kata (Forms of Gentleness & Flexibility)

This is an expressive, gymnastic composition of the methods of attack and defense in a series of slow and moderate actions. It consists of three components, Dai-ikkyo (Set 1), Dai-nikyo (Set 2) and Dai-sankyo (Set 3), each of them has five techniques.

5. Kodokan Goshin-jutsu (Forms of Kodokan Self-Defense)

This consists of an "Unarmed section" and a "Weapons section". The "Unarmed section" consists of twelve techniques while the "Weapons section" consists of nine techniques.

6. Itsutsu-no-Kata (Forms of "Five")

These forms express the mechanism of attack and defense in an elevated way. It consists of five sequences of movements that artistically express the power of nature.

7. Koshiki-no-Kata (Forms of Classics)

Kano Shihan highly evaluated the forms of Kito-ryu Jujutsu as they represent the essence of attack and defense. Therefore, he left the forms as Kodokan Koshiki-no-Kata, with little changes. It consists of 14

8. Seiryoku-Zenyo-Kokumin-Taiiku (Forms of Maximum- Efficiency National physical education)

It contains both aspects of physical education and martial arts and has forms of attack and defense. It consists of 8 movements of Tandoku-renshu (Solo practice) and 9 movements of Sotai-renshu (Duo practice).

9. Kodomo-no-Kata

»Kodokan KATA Textbook

If you want to practice Kata at the Kodokan, please refer to the followings:

- General Guidance (please refer to “Kata class”)
- Kata Practice Guide (how to participate in the class)

For the Fall 2025 United States Judo Federation meetings in Las Vegas, NV, Shufu Yudanshakai sponsored three of our upcoming leaders to provide special developmental workshops for the attendees of the meetings. Brian Lopez, from Hui-O-Judo Beltsville, Gerard Cadet from the Compound and Andrew Furjanic from Tarri Judo at Joint Base

Bolling.

Development session A

Seiryoku Zenyo for Leaders by retired US Army colonel Andrew Furjanic

Andrew Furjanic is a retired Army Reserve colonel with 32 years of leadership experience leading counterterrorism and symmetric conflict analyses. He credits his successes in leadership to his training in judo over the last three decades. He espouses that maximum efficient use of energy goes beyond physical contest into how we lead and inspire others. Andrew continues to teach Defense department employees how to conquer complex challenges. In this capacity he is also a certified executive coach who will be offering time on the 7th and 8th for free.

Development Session B - Keeping traditional judo with changes in teaching as judo transitions -

Presented by Brian Lopez, Hui-O-Judo

Open roundtable discussion format – Brian will lead this session where we will have an open roundtable discussion on how judo senseis methods of teaching are adapting as more MMA, BJJ and other jujitsu types of judoka join in the judo movement. Brian was trained from a youth by Tamai sensei.

Development Session C – The Kakehashi Project - presented by Brian Lopez

Brian Lopez, Hui-O-Judo Beltsville/Shufu Yudanshakai, was chosen to represent the USA on a trip to Japan. The program is called Kakehashi Project. The Japan Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the Japan International Cooperation Center is the organizer. He departed the USA on October 6 and spent over one week in Japan. His experience included daily judo practices, field trips, visiting various cities and multiple cultural experiences. Each year, several participants are selected to attend the JACL Kakehashi Program, coordinated by the Japanese American Citizens League (JACL) and the Japan International Cooperation Center (JICE), and supported by funding from the Japan Ministry of Foreign Affairs. Brian was specifically chosen for his contributions to judo as a student judoka, a sensei, a young professional electrician, a family man, his extended family support and his contributions to the society around him. In 2014, JACL was proud to send four cohorts of student participants to Japan through the Kakehashi Project, hosted by the Japan Foundation. Participants traveled to Japan in May, July, and October, exploring cities and towns across the Country to participate in various cultural activities. Many found connecting to the traditional side of Japan very meaningful. Participants took part in cultural exchanges with their Japanese university peers to get to know one another in the spirit of friendship. Participants were also invited to meet with Japanese professors, political leaders, and business executives to learn about different aspects of U.S.–Japan relations. JACL developed the Japanese American Young Adult Invitation program as an international leadership development program. Today's Japanese American youth are a part of a global community, and an understanding of international and U.S.-Japan relations is integral to their future endeavors. An extension of the JACL youth leadership development programs and the work of the JACL U.S.-Japan Committee, the Kakehashi Project was established to facilitate cross-cultural understanding between Japanese Americans and Japanese, and to encourage a deeper understanding of U.S.-Japan relations. As a selected participant, Brian attended an 8-day trip to Japan where they visited many historical and educational sites, experience traditional and cultural activities, and participate in lectures and workshops. Each trip will visit Tokyo and one or two other cities. Please note: This program is not a leisure-based travel opportunity. It is a high-level cultural and professional exchange specifically designed for individuals who have shown a strong commitment to leadership, community engagement, and cross-cultural understanding. Participants are expected to be representatives of the Japanese American community, JACL, and people of the United States. Participants may be expected to: participate in courtesy calls with members of the Prime Minister's office and members of the National Diet, provide a short presentation about their family history, observe sites of innovation or industry, and engage with local university students. By providing participants with a better understanding of Japan through a variety of fields, including politics, economics, and culture, the Kakehashi Project builds relationships between Japan and Japanese Americans. Kakehashi Project alumni are encouraged to become effective advocates in enhancing U.S.-Japan relations

Objectives of the Program

- (1) To promote mutual trust and understanding among the people of Japan and the USA to build a basis for future friendship and cooperation.
- (2) To promote a global understanding of Japan's economy, society, history, diverse culture, politics, and foreign policy.
- (3) To convey information on the learnings of the program and the charms of Japan to the general public through participants' social media and others.

Development Session D – Judoka development as a player and sensei

Judoka development as a player/sensei - Roundtable discussion and sharing of ideas - Brian Lopez (Hui-O-Judo/Shufu) and Gerard Cadet (Compound/Shufu) have grown up in judo and continue to enjoy all of the benefits of the world of judo. They continue to compete on the national and international Veterans/Master level. They will discuss how they continue to train to stay at the international level while also teaching judo on a daily basis to brand new judoka

Development Session E- Military use of tiered performance systems and their potential for Gen Z judoka.

Andrew Furjanic (Hui-O-Judo/ Shufu Yudanshakai) presents the military's use of tiered performance systems and their potential applicability for drawing in Gen Z. In brief, military services like the Army have multi-tiered systems based on roles and expected performance. Base level are your normal units, one step up are your specialized Divisions like the 101st, 82nd Airborne, etc. One more step up for the Army in particular are groups like the Rangers. Your remaining steps are Special Operations soldiers. However, even within these groups they break into teams for the highest levels. Motivating soldiers to stay in service is very difficult at those first steps. Ironically, as you ascend the performance ranks, expectations increase, but motivation from higher actually decreases. As you enter into special forces, for instance, no one has to sell the job to you any more. You had the motivation to join and stay or you don't. We see this also in judo. When you compete at high levels the primary driver is simply being with the best. If you leave it is to go a step higher. Gen Z are looking for purpose and community. Judo can offer that. This session would explore how judo historically offered tiered performance systems and if that seems to be changing Output would be ideas on re-establishing a competitive culture.

Development Session F

New leadership roles -Roundtable discussion and sharing of ideas - As senior japanese sensei age and step back, new younger judoka are being tasked to become the new leaders. How do these new leaders balance family life, career, and personal life while adapting the teachings of their sensei with new challenges today. Each judoka is looking for something different out of their judo experience.

Each course is hosted on athletesafety.org and requires parental consent in order to complete registration. Parents are asked to register on behalf of their child by creating an account.

All youth modules can be accessed at no cost.

We also recommend that any parent of a USA Judo athlete take the free Parent's Guide to Misconduct in Sport offered by the U.S. Center for SafeSport. Let's focus on Continuous Learning and Improvement for a moment. Often referred to as "Kaizen," lies at the heart of Judo's philosophy. It embodies the idea that growth is a never-ending journey, and there is always room for enhancement and improvement on the side of the athlete, coaches, and referees. In Judo, we understand that mastery is an elusive goal, and the path to improvement is paved with dedication, practice, and a willingness to learn from both successes and failures. This principle extends beyond the dojo, encouraging practitioners to apply the same mindset of perpetual improvement to all aspects of life. Kaizen teaches us that even the smallest positive changes, consistently applied, can lead to remarkable progress over time. It's a reminder that in our pursuit of excellence, the journey itself is as valuable as the destination, and the process of self-improvement is a lifelong endeavor. It's up to us as Coaches in Judo to practice Kaizen and continuously learn for the betterment of our dojos.

Understanding the Philosophy of Judo: Harmony and Mutual Benefit

The Principles of Judo

Jita Kyoei: Mutual Benefit

Jita Kyoei, which translates to "mutual benefit," is one of the fundamental principles that underpin the philosophy of Judo. It emphasizes the importance of cooperation and harmony in all aspects of life. In Judo, practitioners learn not only self-defense techniques but also the value of helping others and working. Mutual benefit in Judo goes beyond the physical realm. It promotes the idea of mutual respect, understanding, and empathy towards others. By practicing Jita Kyoei, individuals learn to develop a strong sense of community, fostering positive relationships and contributing to the greater good. In the context of Judo training, Jita Kyoei is exemplified through the practice of Randori, which involves free-style sparring with a partner. During Randori, both participants aim to improve their skills while also ensuring the safety and well-being of their training partner. This principle encourages practitioners to focus on benefiting themselves while simultaneously helping their partners grow and progress.

Seiryoku Zenyo: Maximum Efficiency

Seiryoku Zenyo, meaning "maximum efficiency," is another crucial principle in Judo. It emphasizes the use of minimal effort and energy to achieve the desired outcome. Judo practitioners learn to exploit their opponent's weaknesses and use their own strengths effectively, rather than relying solely on brute force. By understanding the principle of Seiryoku Zenyo, practitioners develop the ability to analyze situations quickly and make strategic decisions. They learn to conserve energy and use their opponent's force to their advantage. This principle not only applies to physical techniques but also to mental and emotional aspects of life. It teaches practitioners to stay calm and composed, utilizing their resources efficiently to achieve their goals. The principle of Seiryoku Zenyo is particularly relevant in self-defense situations, where individuals may face stronger or larger opponents. By applying this principle, Judo practitioners can defend themselves effectively, even against seemingly insurmountable odds.

Ju No Ri: The Principle of Gentleness

Ju No Ri, often known as the principle of gentleness, is a core tenet of Judo. It teaches individuals to approach conflicts and challenges with a calm and non-aggressive mindset. Contrary to popular belief, gentleness in Judo does not imply weakness but rather a strategic approach to overcome obstacles. This principle emphasizes the importance of flexibility, adaptability, and resilience. Judo practitioners learn to yield to their opponent's force, redirecting it to gain an advantageous position. By practicing Ju No Ri, individuals develop mental and emotional strength, enabling them to remain composed in difficult situations. In everyday life, the principle of Ju No Ri encourages individuals to seek peaceful resolutions and avoid unnecessary conflicts. It promotes empathy, understanding, and the ability to find common ground with others. By embodying gentleness, Judo practitioners inspire and promote a harmonious and cooperative society.

In conclusion, the principles of Judo, including Jita Kyoei (mutual benefit), Seiryoku Zenyo (maximum efficiency), and Ju No Ri (the principle of gentleness), not only guide the practice of this martial art but also provide valuable insights for personal growth and interactions with others. Understanding and embracing these principles can lead to a more harmonious and fulfilling life both on and off the Judo mat.

The Philosophy of Judo

Judo, a Japanese martial art created by Jigoro Kano, is not just a physical combat sport but also a way of life. It encompasses a profound philosophy rooted in the principles of harmony and mutual benefit. Understanding the philosophy of Judo is crucial for practitioners to fully grasp the essence of this martial art.

Harmony with Others

Central to the philosophy of Judo is the concept of harmony with others. Judo emphasizes the importance of cooperation and mutual respect both on and off the mat. In Judo, the objective is not to defeat or overpower the opponent but to use their energy and strength against them. This principle of harmony encourages practitioners to seek peaceful resolutions, to understand and empathize with others, and to find common ground even in the face of conflict. By practicing Judo, individuals learn to cultivate harmonious relationships, not only in the context of martial arts but also in their daily interactions. The philosophy of harmony with others extends beyond the physical techniques, teaching practitioners valuable life skills such as effective communication, teamwork, and conflict resolution.

Harmony with Nature

Another core aspect of the philosophy of Judo is the pursuit of harmony with nature. Judo recognizes the interdependence between human beings and the natural world. Practitioners are encouraged to respect and understand the natural laws and cycles that govern life. In Judo, this harmony with nature is reflected in the fluidity and adaptability of techniques. Like water flowing around obstacles, Judo practitioners learn to adapt their movements to the circumstances and take advantage of their opponent's weaknesses. This understanding of nature's principles teaches practitioners to be flexible, patient, and to embrace change rather than resist it. By fostering harmony with nature, Judo practitioners gain a deeper appreciation for the world around them and develop a sense of responsibility towards the environment. They learn to live in harmony with the natural world, promoting sustainability and ecological awareness.

Harmony with Oneself

The philosophy of Judo also emphasizes the importance of harmony with oneself. Judo practitioners strive to develop physical, mental, and emotional balance. Through rigorous training, they learn to understand their own strengths and limitations, and to overcome personal challenges. Judo encourages self-reflection and self-improvement. By cultivating a harmonious relationship with oneself, practitioners develop self-confidence, discipline, and a positive mindset. This inner harmony allows them to face adversity with resilience, to stay focused and composed under pressure, and to maintain a sense of inner peace. Ultimately, the philosophy of Judo teaches individuals to strive for balance in all aspects of life. By harmonizing with others, nature, and oneself, practitioners of Judo not only become skilled martial artists but also develop into well-rounded individuals who contribute positively to their communities and society as a whole.

In conclusion, the philosophy of Judo is rooted in the principles of harmony and mutual benefit. By emphasizing the importance of balance, respect, and cooperation, Judo practitioners strive to achieve not only physical strength but also emotional and mental well-being. Through the practice of Judo, individuals learn valuable life lessons that go beyond the confines of the dojo. They develop a deep understanding of the interconnectedness of all things and the power of unity. Ultimately, the philosophy of Judo inspires individuals to seek harmony and mutual benefit in all aspects of their lives, fostering a sense of personal growth and positive impact on the world around them.

Is judo the right sport for kids?? (Article from the path of martial arts.com)

Are you thinking about enrolling your child in martial arts but aren't sure which style to pick? Judo is an excellent choice for kids, offering a perfect balance of physical activity, discipline, and character development.

This article will explore how Judo measures up to the most important qualities parents look for in a martial art. From discipline and life skills to safety and fitness benefits, we'll cover everything you need to know about Judo for kids. Whether you're new to martial arts or comparing different styles, this article will help you make an informed decision about whether Judo is the right fit for your child's development and your family's goals. Judo is a Japanese martial art that excels in standing takedowns and throws. It is famously said that judoka hit their opponents with the planet instead of their fists. Judo is a fantastic choice for kids' martial arts training, excelling in key areas that are highly valued by parents. This style earns an "A" tier rating for its strong focus on discipline, respect, and self-defense, all in a safe and supportive setting. As one of the most widely practiced martial arts in the world, Judo helps children build confidence, improve focus, and develop lifelong values. With its emphasis on balance, control, and mutual respect, Judo is much more than just throws—it's a foundation for personal growth. Judo is a great martial art for kids, giving them a strong base in self-defense that can be built on with grappling, striking, or weapons training later.

Judo provides a strong foundation for children to develop discipline, life skills, and values.

The values of Judo are actively practiced and taught to young students:

- Courage: Doing what is right
- Courtesy: Showing respect for others
- Friendship: Considered the purest human emotion
- Honor: Being true to one's word
- Modesty: Speaking of oneself without pride
- Respect: Essential for building trust
- Self-control: Remaining calm, especially when angry
- Sincerity: Expressing oneself honestly

These values are upheld by strict etiquette, such as showing respect to instructors, classmates, and bowing when entering class. Judo teaches kids to handle conflict resolution with controlled actions and problem-solving, not aggression. Students learn to set goals as they work towards higher belt ranks. They develop perseverance by putting in consistent effort over time.

Judo is a full-contact martial art, but safety measures, falling techniques, and separating kids' classes from advanced training make it quite safe.

In kids' Judo programs, more intense Judo moves like joint locks and choke holds are restricted and only used at higher levels. Children in Judo learn basic moves under close supervision and practice their throws on impact-absorbing mats. Unlike many martial arts, Judo doesn't use strikes. It focuses on using an opponent's energy against them, which lowers injury risk. Kids will also learn breakfalls, which reduce injury risks from Judo throws and teach valuable safety skills to prevent fall injuries in everyday life. At advanced and competitive levels, Judo is a full-contact grappling sport with powerful throws that can sometimes lead to injuries. Studies show that high-intensity Judo competitions have an overall 3.6% injury rate (excluding scratches), with over 80% affecting the upper body. Even at this level, most Judo injuries are treated on-site, letting athletes keep competing. Overall, Judo is a safe martial art and sport for all skill levels.

Judo classes for kids are usually led by experienced instructors who understand how to communicate effectively with children.

The atmosphere is often supportive and inclusive, with a focus on personal growth and mutual respect. Since instructor and class culture varies between Judo dojos, parents should inspect a dojo and see if the environment is a good fit for their kids.

Tips for Parents Evaluating Dojo Culture:

- Observe a Class: Parents should watch how instructors interact with students and handle challenges.
- Meet the Instructors: Discuss their teaching philosophy and approach to working with children.
- Inspect for Safety: Ensure the Judo program has a 'safety first' policy, enough instructors for supervision, and high-quality mats.
- Check the Dojo's Policies: Look for clear rules about discipline, safety, and student progress.

- Talk to Other Parents: Getting feedback from those whose children are already enrolled can provide insights into the dojo's culture.

Judo is a very popular martial art for kids, known for teaching good values, being widely available, and offering a competitive sport aspect. Judo grew in popularity after joining the 1964 Olympics, and the International Judo Federation has helped spread national federations across the world. Kids find Judo "cool" because it teaches lots of throws and grappling. As an Olympic sport with a competitive scene, it can also appeal to kids. Judo is widely available, with many dojos worldwide and the IJF's "Judo in Schools" program introducing it to kids aged 7-19 in schools. Most judo instructors know how to train kids and structure their classes to suit young students. They often mix fun with learning to make the classes engaging. Judo is great at takedowns and teaches some grappling, but it has gaps in striking and weapons. Judo excels at controlling fights through opponent manipulation, combining strong standing defense with powerful throws and takedowns. Judo also teaches a few grappling techniques, chokes and joint locks, making judoka versatile fighters in any situation. Judo is a solid choice for kids to build a foundation in fighting and self-defense.

Many studies show Judo has numerous fitness and health benefits for kids. Here are some findings:

- Judo training helps kids keep a healthy weight by maintaining or reducing body fat and building muscle.
- Regular Judo practice improves heart and lung function in children.
- Judo has been shown to boost mental health, helping kids feel more confident, have a better body image, and enjoy a higher quality of life.
- Judo training strengthens bones, which is especially important for children as they grow.

Judo strengthens the whole body, especially the upper body for throwing opponents. It also improves flexibility and increases range of motion. The Department of Health and Human Services recommends 150 minutes of moderate aerobic activity per week. Three weekly Judo classes meet that goal. Judo classes are typically affordable and widely available, with flexible schedules that can accommodate busy families.

On average, you can expect to pay between $150 and $250 a month for 2-3 Judo classes per week. Judo class prices vary widely, from $25 to $500+ a month, depending on factors like location, dojo quality, special programs, and private lessons. Judo uniforms for kids usually cost between $30 and $270. Costs can vary depending on the school, but Judo is generally accessible to most families.
